

Are You Selling Appliances in California?

The California Energy Commission promotes the use of energy efficient appliances through its APPLIANCE EFFICIENCY PROGRAM, providing

- ◆ Manufacturers — with publicity for their covered energy-efficient products;
- ◆ Distributors — with a list of models that are legal to sell in California
- ◆ Industry — with access to specific efficiency data

The following are some of the appliances currently regulated in California:

- ◆ Distribution Transformers
- ◆ Exit Signs
- ◆ Food Service Equipment, such as Commercial Refrigerators and Freezers
- ◆ Lighting Fixtures, including Lamps, Luminaires and Traffic Signals
- ◆ Patio Heaters and other Infrared Heaters
- ◆ Pool Equipment
- ◆ Refrigerated Bottled or Canned Beverage Vending Machines
- ◆ Whole House Fans and Residential Exhaust Fans
- ◆ Wine Chillers
- ◆ Water Dispensers

Manufacturers are required to report specific energy data to the Energy Commission before these appliances can be sold or offered for sale in California. The Appliance Efficiency Program maintains a database of regulated appliances. The on-line listing of this data can be found at: www.energy.ca.gov/appliances/appliance/excel\_based\_files/

Manufacturers can find certification forms and instructions on-line at:
www.energy.ca.gov/appliances/appliance/forms\_instructions\_labs/

Distributors should confirm that the specific model numbers offered for sale in California are on these lists. Selling uncertified regulated appliances in California is against the law.
